"Put Your Pet In Caring Hands"

Welcome to your local Veterinary Hospital. The Veterinary Doctors and their staff will be happy to see you and your pets!

Have your pet checked Regularly!

Vaccinations will help keep your pet healthy.

A Healthy Pet Is a Happy Pet!

An ophthalmoscope lets a veterinarian
look into your pet's eyes to see if they are healthy.

Veterinarians are doctors that help us take care of our pets so that they stay healthy.

A drop of this dog's blood has been placed on a slide for examination.

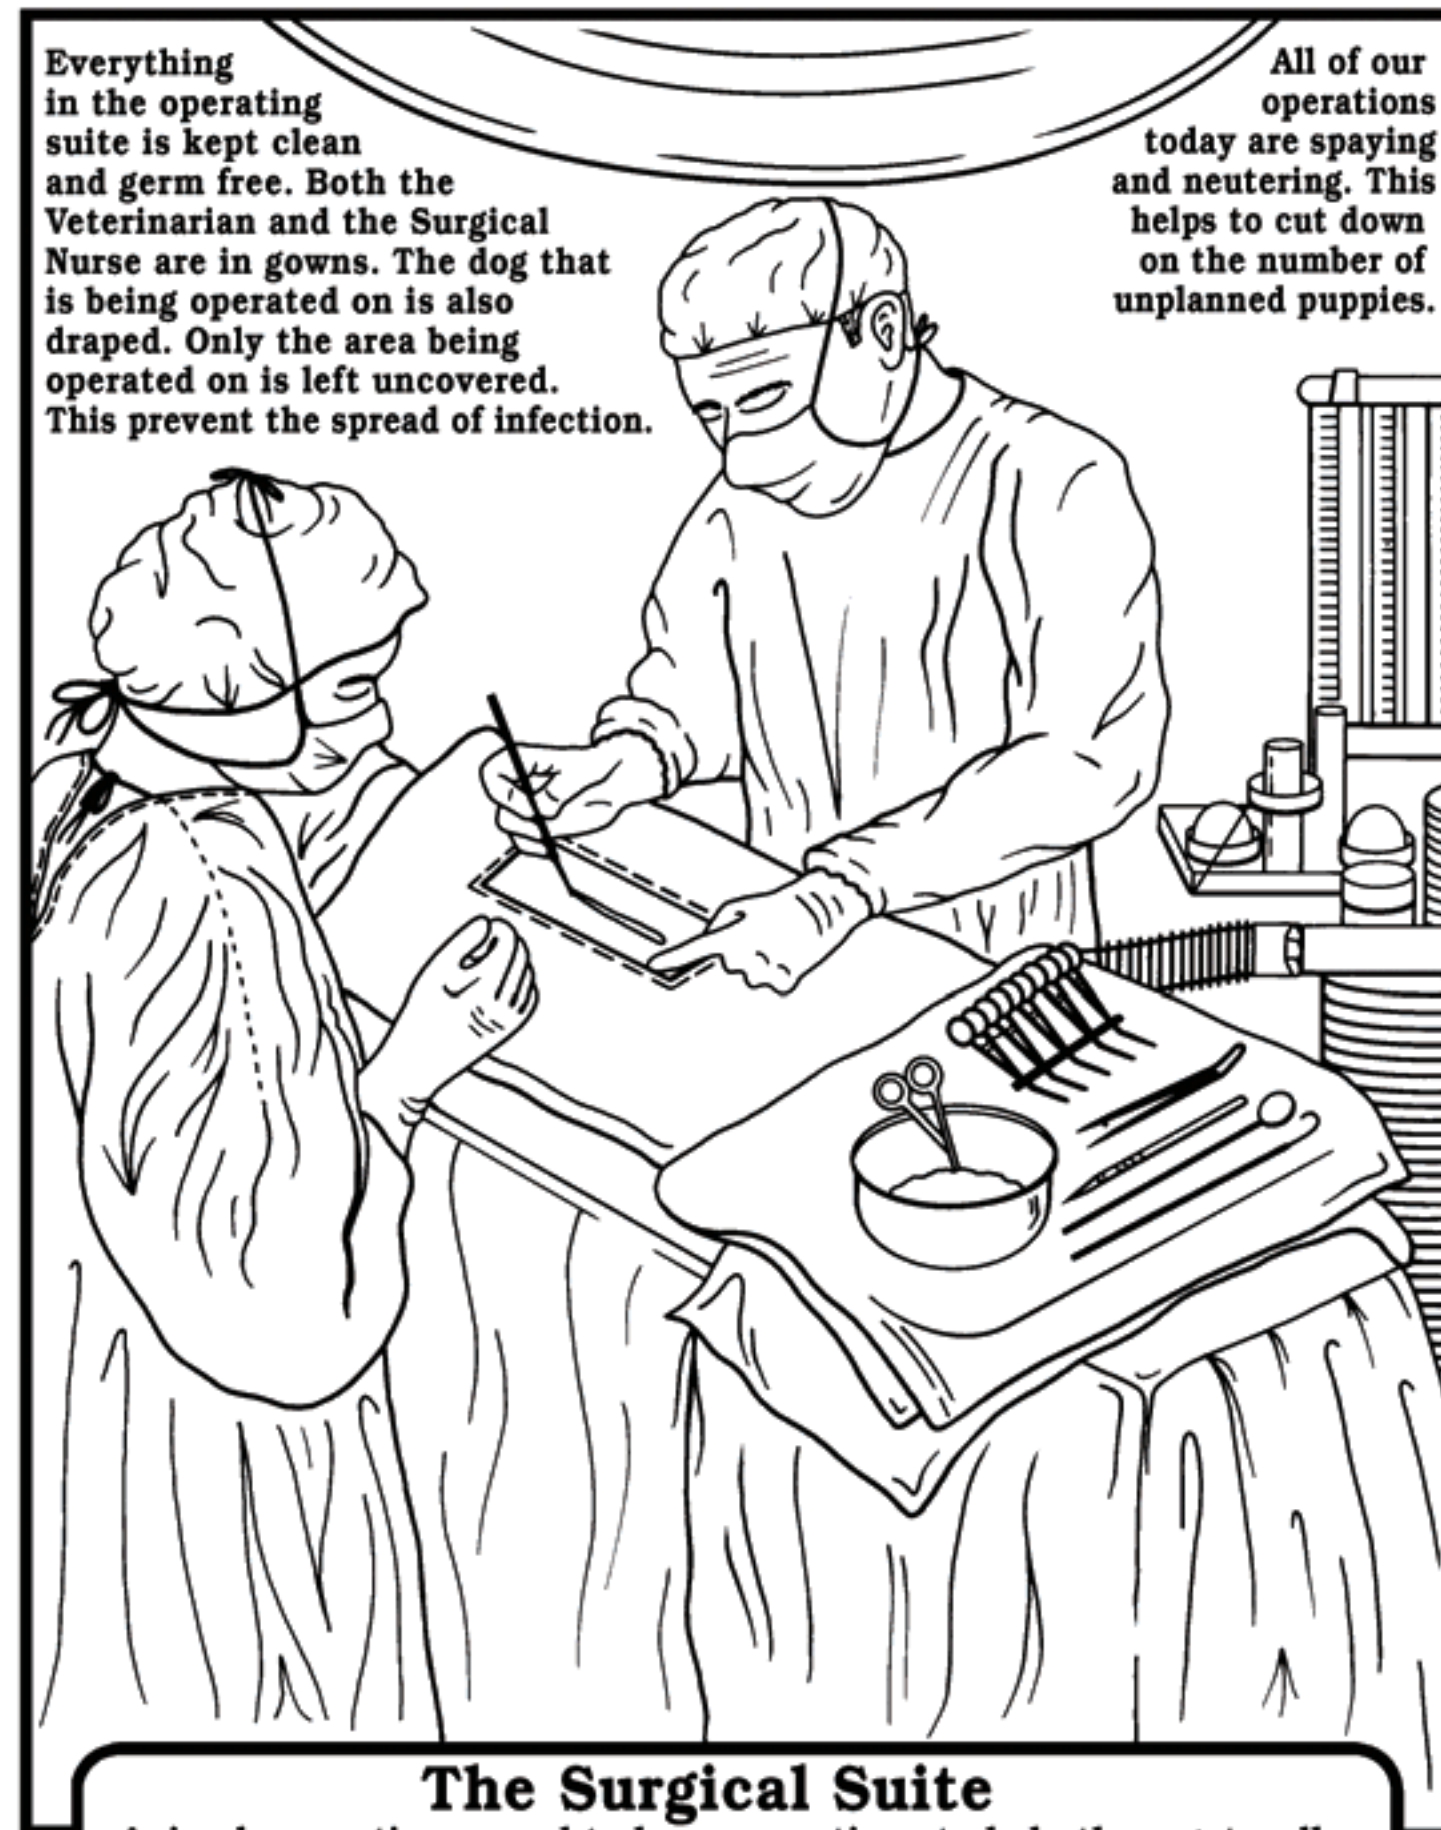

The microscope will magnify everything on the slide. The Lab-Techs will be able to tell what is making this dog sick.

Drawing blood for a blood test
Will NOT Hurt Your Pet!
This will show the Vet
what is going on with your pet's health.

Taking A Blood Sample

Taking a sample of blood from your pet will show the Vet if your pet is sick and what kind of treatment they will need to feel better.

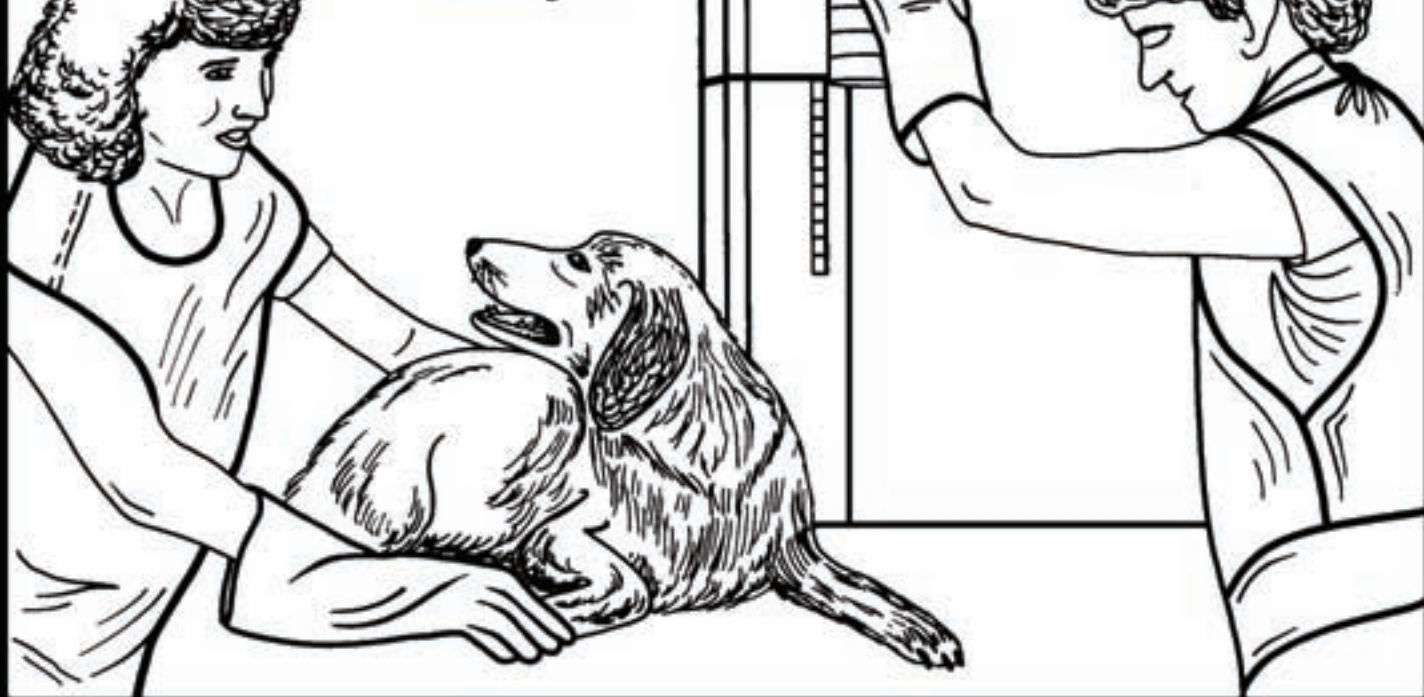

Everything in the operating suite is kept clean and germ free. Both the Veterinarian and the Surgical Nurse are in gowns. The dog that is being operated on is also draped. Only the area being operated on is left uncovered. This prevents the spread of infection.

All of our operations today are spaying and neutering. This helps to cut down on the number of unplanned puppies.

The Surgical Suite

Animals sometimes need to have operations to help them get well. This dog is being spayed so that she will not have any unplanned puppies.

Taking an X-Ray does not hurt much!
The technicians are talking to the dog while gently holding him in place.

Taking An X-Ray

Since a Veterinarian can not say an animal, "Please lay on your side and hold out your paw", the X-Ray techs position the animal and hold him in place.

FIND THE BONES!

See if you can find the hidden bones!

Color the X-Ray
by using the code:

▲ BLACK ● SILVER

Reading The X-RAY

The Veterinarian is looking over the X-Ray very carefully to see if there are any broken bones. The dog can then be treated and then sent home.
